

Latour launches Louis Latour is launching two wines from the Vilafonté winery in Paarl and says it is the first-ever joint winemaking venture between South Africa and the US. Both wines – Series M (rrp £30) and Series C (rrp £40) – are “Bordeaux” blends. Series C is described as “bold and expressive” and is Cabernet Sauvignon-dominant, while “luscious” Series M is 41 per cent Merlot. Both include small amounts of Malbec and Cabernet Franc. Zelma Long, former winemaker at Robert Mondavi, travelled extensively to the Vilafonté winery in South Africa to produce the wines.
